

Table of Contents

Acknowledgments	7
I. Prolegomena
Ardian Ahmedaja and Anda Beitāne
I.1 The Making of the Topic	13
I.2 Latvia, Riga and JVLMA as Spaces of Musical Experience and Expectation	15
I.3 Experience and Expectation as Research Tools in Ethnomusicology	31
II. The Present Past and the Future Made Present
Philip V. Bohlman
Riga Reprise – Resounding Song in the Ethnomusicological Entrepôt (The John Blacking Memorial Lecture)	43
III. The Tension Between Experience and Expectation
Martin Boiko
Herder's Experiences of Latvian Traditional Singing and His Concept of Orality and "Poetic" Tone"	61
Felix Morgenstern
Celtic Alterity: A Persistent German Imaginary of Irish Folk Music	73
Enrique Cámara de Landa
Memory and Revival in the Context of Migration: Rehearsing and Performing Contrapunto de Coplas in the Northwest of Argentina	89
Sverker Hyltén-Cavallius
Entangled Times: Mobility, Migration and Multitemporality in Late-1960s Sweden	107
IV. Psychological Models of Expectation
Rytis Ambrazevičius
Manifestations of Psychological Models of Expectation in Traditional Music: Lithuanian Examples	121
Notes on Contributors	134
Index	136